DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgement

1. The Preliminary Amendment filed on 04/25/2006 has been received and placed of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The recitations of "provides a code tracking adjustment signal" (recited in claim 1, line 5) and "provides a filter coefficient" (recited in claim 1, lines 7-8) are vague and indefinite because they are not used by any element recited in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eckhardt et al (US 2004/0088609) in view of Healey et al (US 2004/0044713).

Regarding claims 1-8, Eckhardt, as shown in figure 3, teaches code-tracking system for synchronizing the received signals comprising loop filter (330) for receiving the early/late error signal and error scaling device (330) for generating a code tracking adjustment signal. See also [0007] and [0041] – [0044]. Eckhardt fails to teach a controller for providing filter coefficient based on at least one of the frequency of updates and number of same direction updates. However, Healey, as shown in figure 1, teaches controller (102, 104, 106) updating the filter coefficient based on at least one of the frequency of updates and number of same direction updates. See Healey: [0015], [0025] - [0028], [0037] – [0039] and [0044]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Eckhardt by employing the controller for providing the filter coefficients as taught by Healey so as to effectively updating the filter coefficients for filtering the error signal.

Regarding claims 9-19, both Eckhardt and Healey teach all subject matter claimed except for the threshold is user-defined whereas Healey teaches the threshold is automatically generated. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Eckhardt and Healey by using user-defined threshold instead of automatically generated user-defined threshold as taught by Healey so that threshold can be controlled by a user and such modification would not involve any inventive feature.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference Girardeau, Jr. is cited because it is pertinent to the method and apparatus for code tracking having loop filter.
